September 2, 2005

To the Members of the California State Senate:

I am returning Senate Bill 238 without my signature.

In December 2002, the Department of Transportation (Caltrans) submitted to the Legislature a report showing that Safety-Enhancement Double Fines Zones, by themselves, do not have any statistically significant effect on traffic safety. Caltrans suggested that if any future double fines zones are to be effective, they must be established concurrently with enhanced enforcement, public awareness campaigns, and other traffic safety measures. Unfortunately, this bill merely establishes the Golden Gate Bridge as a double fine zone without any additional measures.

Furthermore, this bill would perpetuate the piecemeal process of using a legislative measure to establish each separate double fine zone. I encourage the Legislature to consider providing authority to Caltrans to develop a comprehensive program establishing these zones along the highest risk roadways and in areas with local governments that wish to devote extra resources to accomplish the goal of reducing traffic accident rates on a specific roadway.

For these reasons I cannot support the bill.

Sincerely,

ARNOLD SCHWARZENEGGER, Governor
