PRAYER

Prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rabbi Mona Alfi:

Oscar Edward Maurer wrote on the spiritual struggles of life. He wrote:

Waste not your life trying to push shut doors which God is opening. Neither wear yourself out in keeping open doors which ought to be forever sealed. Some episode in your life, over which you are anxious, is closed. It is in the past. Whatever its memory, you cannot change it. But you can shut the door.

Go into some silent place or thought. Test your self-respect. Ask your soul, "Have I emerged from this experience with honor, or if not, can honor be retrieved?" And if your soul answers "Yes," close then the door to that Past . . . and before you [you will find] many another door, held open by the hand of God.

May the Holy One of Blessing enable us to see the portals that stand open before us, and may we always have the ability to walk away, with our honor intact, from the doors that have been closed. Blessed is the Creator who gives us the wisdom to distinguish between the doorways that should remain closed, from the portals that need our hand to open them.—AMEN.
